

A Forum on Childhood Trauma:
Approaches to Working with Children and Families
Experiencing Trauma in the Northern Territory

When: Wednesday, 22 May 2013

Where: Crowne Plaza, Alice Springs

Time: 8.30am – 4.00pm

Morning tea, lunch and afternoon tea will be provided

Aim: The forum seeks to consider the impact of trauma or toxic stress on children and their families, particularly in the NT. The forum will highlight some of the innovative and developing responses currently being delivered in the local context. It will provide an opportunity for professionals working in the area to connect with relative programs and providers and share promising practice. Three key areas will be explored by the following keynote speakers:

Dr Howard Bath

Howard Bath-The characteristics of a trauma informed care environment.

Dr Howard Bath has been the NT Children’s Commissioner since June 2008. In his current role he has a particular focus on the safety and wellbeing of vulnerable children and families. In 2010 he was co-chair of an Inquiry into the child protection system in the NT which produced the Growing them Strong, Together report. He has a long history as a practicing Clinical Psychologist, agency director, trainer and researcher in child and family services.

Dr Sarah Mares

Sarah Mares – The importance of relationships in infancy and early childhood: Risks, Resilience and Approaches to Prevention and Intervention after Trauma.

Dr Sarah Mares is a child and family psychiatrist and Senior Research Fellow at the Centre for Child Development and Education, Menzies School of Health Research in Darwin. Dr Mares has particular interest in early relationships, parenting interventions and therapeutic work with high risk infants, young children and their families.

Sharron Williams

Sharron Williams - Sharing best practice and promising directions when responding to trauma & meeting the needs of Aboriginal & Torres Strait Islander Children, young people and their families.

Sharron Williams is a Narungga/Kaurna woman who has been the CEO of Aboriginal Family Support Services (AFSS), the peak Aboriginal child welfare organisation in South Australia, since 1998. Sharron has also served on the SNAICC national executive since 1998 and was elected Deputy Chairperson - Child Welfare in May 2011. In November 2012, she was elected interim Chairperson of Secretariat of National Aboriginal and Islander Child Care Inc. (SNAICC).
